Early Years

Keith began his career with Hunt & Partners as a trainee accountant in Portsmouth, moving to Rothman Pantall as Audit department manager. In 1998, after holding senior positions with Casson Beckman, and latterly C W Fellowes, Keith joined Taylor Cocks.

With responsibility for over 75 clients, from small one-man limited companies with turnover of less than £50,000 to groups of companies with turnover exceeding £10,000,000.

Going solo

Keith says,

“ Becoming disillusioned with the corporate aspect of a large accountancy practice I formed K.W. Barron Limited in 2003 to provide growing businesses with a professional service in a cost effective way.

Since then I have provided a reliable and comprehensive range of accountancy, taxation and business services to a wide variety of clients.

My client portfolio base covers everything from dealing with UK subsidiaries of worldwide organisations and reporting in foreign currencies to sole-traders and preparation of personal tax returns.

I also deal with number of individuals involved in the entertainment industry and advise on artistic averaging. I have a detailed knowledge of the operation of the Construction Industry Scheme (CIS) and act for a number of contracting companies.

I provide all of these services on a fixed-fee basis so you don't have the worry of the "clock-ticking" every time we have a meeting or phone conversation. ”

Standing-up

Comedy, runs deep in the blood, Keith is the first to admit he's not your typical accountant. Long-term clients will testify a little well-placed humour make regular accounting meetings actually enjoyable!

It has to be said there must be few accountants to reach the finals of national new acts competitions and performing at over 100 venues around the country.

These days Keith has a good reputation for organising a handful of comedy nights throughout the year, often in aid of charities and local good causes.

Squash, is well worthy of a mention to understand Keith. He's heavily involved with the management committee of Lee on the Solent Tennis, Squash and Fitness Club, and of course characteristically holds the position of Honorary Treasurer.

Baking, an avid, somewhat talented baker, Keith is on occasion known to treat his clients to a slice of homemade lemon drizzle cake.
